The Spinning Mills of York Street, Dublin.

Examining the Charges of Fraudulent Invoices:

Aldermen Receiving Pay as Supervisors.

In the United States District Court, yesterday, the suit of the United States against the New York branch of the York Street Flax Spinning Company of Belfast, Ireland, to recover penalties for alleged undervaluation of imports, was continued before Judge Blatchford.

Mr. E. S. Kimball, clerk in the United States Treas ury, testified that in 1873 he examined the books and papers of the New York branch of the York Street These books and papers will be offered in evi dence during the trial.

Mr. W. J. Westcott, the buyer for the firm of J. F. White & Co., of this city, testified that in 1873 he went to Belfast and bought lineus of the York Street Flax Spinning Company for his employers.

Mr. Evaris, for defendants, objected, on the ground that evidence of that character should not be introduced at this stage of the trial, but insisted that the duced at this stage of the trial, but insisted that the witness only could be asked if he was acquainted with the market price of linen goods in Belfast in 1873.

Mr. Edmund Smith, for the government, claimed that the best way of getting at the market price was to show what goods sold for in the market.

The objection was overruled, and then the witness went on to state that he bought twenty-five inch brown linen drills, and it appeared from a letter to him from Mr. Read, a member of the company, that the prices paid for those goods varied, according to the quality, from four pence to eleven pence, sterling, per yard. He identified invoices of seventy-two cases of those goods imported in 1873.

The government claims that during 1873 similar goods were invoiced to the New York branch house at one-eighth of a penny sterling less than the goods sold to White & Co.

Mr. Evaris asked if the orders were not received

Mr. Evarts asked if the orders were not received during the panic of 1873. The government objected as to the statement of time of the reception of the orders. Mr. Evarts said that be desired to show that White & Co. wrote to have their orders cancelled. Objection

Witness identified White & Co.'s letters to the defend ants requesting cancellation of their orders on account of the dull market here, and the replies of the company of the dull market here, and the replies of the company refusing the requests.

Mr. J. H. Anderson, importer of dry goods in 1872 and 1873, testified that during those years he bought of the defendants at their office in Manchester. England, nine cases of lines drills, at prices ranging from 4yd.
to 5½d, sterling per yard. The government claims that similar goods were invoiced at the New York branch of the house at a farthing less per yard. The case will be continued to-day.

DOUBLE SALARIES TO ALDERMEN. In the Court of Common Pleas, Special Term, before Judge Larremore, there was an argument vesterday on a demurrer in the suit brought by Alderman Billings to recover four months' salary for services as Supervisor at the rate of $2,000 a year. Judge Larremore gave judgment for the plaintiff. The case is to be taken to the Court of Appeals, and is brought as a test case. In a similar suit brought by Alderman Monheimer, of the former Board of Aldermen, the decision, as will be remembered, was rendered in his favor. The present suit is based on the hope, evidently, of a like success in drawing two salaries.

MARINE COURT-GENERAL TERM. VALIDITY OF MORTGAGE AS TO FUTURE AC-QUIRED PROPERTY.

Before Judges Joachimsen and Spaulding. Doscher vs. Jacobi.-In May, 1873, one Pfaff gave sefendant a chattel mortgage on the property in his store and the instrument contained a clause conveying "any goods, wares or merchandise, more less, belonging to Henry Pfair, that may be on the premises upon foreclosure of this mortgage." On or about the 19th of May Mr. Pfair purchased twenty-five barrels of flour, and on the 22d of May, 1874, the defendant foreclosed his mortgage and took the flour in question. Thereupon Mr. Pfair assigned his claim to the plainsiff, who brought an action against the defendant for the value of the flour on the ground that the mortgage was invalid as to the after acquired property. The Court at Trial Term so held and the jury rendered a verdict for the plainsiff. The defendant appealed to the General Term of this Court, which, on the argument yesterday, rendered a decision reversing the judgment of the Court below and holding that the mortgage as to this property was perfectly valid as between the parties, at the same time intimating that as to creditors the mortgage might not be valid provided that those rights had intervened before the taking of the property by the defendant. less, belonging to Henry Pfaff, that may

SUMMARY OF LAW CASES. The assignment of Mr. H. Ward to Mr. Lockwood was filed vesterday in the Court of Common Pleas. The liabilities were stated at $40,000, and assets

$7,000. In the United States District Court, before Judge Blatchford, ninety six reels of cigarettes, seized on the steamship City of New York on November & for violation of the revenue laws, were yesterday condemned, in default of the appearance of a claimant, and ordered to be sold.

Astor to appear before a he Surrogate in relation to the will of the deceased was filed yesterday with Surrogate Hutchings. The will is to be offered for probate on the 18th inst., after which it will be made public.

Mrs. Mary J. Petits claims to have given to Andrew L. Roberts, a lawyer, $1,800 to secure the release from prison in Massachusetts of her husband, Spence Petits, where he is now confined upon a conviction for forgery. He claims, on the contrary, to have expended this sum and $250 more in his attempts to accomplish this end. A suit has grown out of the dispute, and yesterday there was an argument, before Judge Bonothue, in Supreme Court, Chambers, on two counter motions, one on behalf of Roberts, to compel payment of the extra $250 claimed to be due him, and the other on behalf of Mrs. Petits, for leave to put in a reply. Judge Donohue took the papers.

In the suit brough by Freeman D. Markwald against the White Star Line to recover for losses sustained in the wrecking of the steamer Atlantic, the facts of which have been given in the Highard, a motion was made yesterday, before Judge Westbrook, holding Supreme Court, Circuit, to dismiss the complaint. Judge Westbrook refused to grant the motion, holding that to run a ship on an Island within 100 feet of the shore, and to expose the passengers to the danger, pain and suffering of the wind and waves, was so unusual and courtary to the ordinary routine of the voyage as to make out a prima facte case of negligence, which the company was obliged to overcome by evidence. He therefore refused to grant the motion. The case will be continued this morning. be continued this morning.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Recorder Hackett. A SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST AN OFFICER. Recorder Hackets yesterday told the court ataches to inform officer Frank Keenan that a serious charge had been preferred against him and that he must appear in Court this morning to answer to it. His Honor stated that the officer named had been detailed on the previous day to convey a prisoner named Mary Ann Foley to the Tombs, and that he and his prisoner had been subsequently found heiplessity drunk in the strees by another policeman. Should the circumstances as above stated prove true the officer will doubtless be dealt with very severely.

ELECTION LAW CASES.

James Brown, William J. Fallon and John Fisher were arraigned for trial, charged with violating section 55 of the Election laws in baving voted in a district in which they were not qualified by residence to vote. It appeared that the prisoners registered themselves as fiving at No. 7 West Third street. Edwin Dew, who acted as Inspector of Election in that district, testified that on the 5th of October Fisher attempted to regis. | yesterday in obtaining a jury for the trial of John Hall, |

ter, and it consequence of that attempt witness had made an examination of the premises. The basement was occupied as a lager beer saloon by Henry Knubel, who was also acting as agent for the landlerd in taking care of the house. The upper part of the house he found empty, with the exception of two rooms, in one of which a man was sleeping on a piece of matting, and another, the door of which was fastened and which coutsined furniture. The evidence elicited from Knubel, the accused, and other witnesses showed that the prisoners in common with several other persons, lived in the house, paying to Knubel into or nothing for their sleeping accommodations, which were of a very primitive character, consisting in some cases of a piece of matting. One of them testified that in fair weather he sleept in a hammock swung in the yard, and on rainy nights took up his position on the top of a pinno in the basement. Several of the lodgers drive garbage carts for Knubel, who apparently make a good thing of it all round. Assistant District Attorney Beil prested very warmly for a prosecution, but the jury acquitted the prisoner. Mr. Beil then stated that he was about to arraign Mathew O'Brien for the same offence and that the evidence against him was of a similar character. The Recorder discharged him on his own recognizance.

INFLATIONISTS IN TROUBLE. In the United States Circuit Court, Brooklyn, Judge Benedict presiding, the trial of three alleged counterfeiters was commenced. The prisoners, who are in-dicted for manufacturing counterfeit nickel five cent pieces, are Philip Lewinski, a Polish Jew, and John and Thomas Loughery, brothers, all young men. The accused, it may be remembered by the readers of the HERALD, were arrested in the early part of July last by the United States Marshal and his officers. The first clew to the gang was had through the apprehension of Rudolph Schrieber, a relative of Lewinski, who was detected in the act of passing a bogus five-cent piece, and upon being pressed as to how he came into posses sion of it confessed that it came to him from Lewinski. The latter individual was thereupon arrested at his residence in Humboldt street. To the Marshal's men he told several contradictory stories. The first state-ment made by the prisoner was to the effect that he had purchased $30 worth of the coin at the Fullent ferry; then he said he got the stuff at the Sub-Treasury, in New York, and still again that he got the mone from a man in Newark. Eventually he gave informa-tion which led to the arrest of the Lougherys and als in New York, and still again that he got the money from a man in Newark. Eventually he gave intormation which led to the arrest of the Lougherys and also of August G. Taubert. Taubert, who is a die sinker by trade, had not been long in the country before he met the Loughery brothers, and, as his knowledge of English was very imperfect, they persuaded him to accept employment from them, telling him that they were making money for the government, and that their work was of so strictly secret a contracter that it would be imperative upon him to take a solemn oath never to diveige his occupation. He did as required in good faith, as Tambert maintained when on examination before the United States Commissioner, and they rented a house for him on Floyd street, paid him $15 per week and supplied him with a lathe and engravor's tools. Tambert produced a most excellent counterfeit coin, many thousands of which are in use to-day as genuine threeghout the country. Philip Lewinski's efforce to be accepted as State evidence by the District Attorney failed. Tambert was discharged on the preliminary examination, and he will now be the chief witness for the prosecution. Lewinski is regarded as the bead man of the contrefters on trail. At the time of his arrest he carried on ostensibly the business of junk dealer, on Concord street, though he was really, it is alleged, concerned mainly in the circulation of the bright but spurious nickel which the Lougherys' ware making with great dexterity for months in a house on Lexington avenue, were about $10,000 worth of machinery was subsequently found by the government officers. The brothers, who are on trial, pretended that they were engaged in the manufacture of jewelry, and in that way they managed to turn aside all suspicion for four or five months as to the real nature of their business. It is alleged that on March I, 1875, when the Sub-Treasury of New York Issued a large quantity of five-cent pieces, Lewinski's concern also swelled the votume of nickel by letting loose at least $30

THE BLACKWELL'S ISLAND MURDER.

THE INQUEST COMMENCED-SUSPICIOUS MOVE-MENTS OF A CONVICT ON THE NIGHT BEFORE THE MURDER WAS DISCOVERED.

Yesterday afternoon Coroner Woltman, accor by the jury empanelled in the case of Mathew Creevy, who was murdered on Blackwell's Island, left Bellevue Hospital at a little before two e'clock, on the island steamboat, to view the "lodge" in which the murder took place and to examine the several witnesses on the island. They landed at the Workhouse dock, and were thence conducted to the main office of the Workhouse, where the two men that passed through the gate on the fatal morning were brought before them. Neither of the prisoners is over twenty years of age. They have been kept in close confinement ever since Friday morning. Both strenuously denied all knowledge of the murder. One of them, Peter Mc-Graun, stated that he was committed on the 18th of @ctober for disorderly conduct and was sent up for thee mention. Yesterday his friends was sent up for thee mention. Yesterday his friends was adout to leave the Island. The other said his name was Frederick Lane, and that he was committed on the 27th of August last for six months, and had been locked up several times before. The prisoners carried around the bread and ice in the morning. They stated that when they reached the gate it was open id, and that there was a light in the "lodge," showing that

THE DECRASED WAS UP.

They saw no one, nor was the door of the lodge open.

The time was a little past six o'clock.

Commissioner Bronnan, who accompanied the Coroner up to the Island, stated that the two boys left at the usual time un the morning from the bake house, delivered their bread at the regular time, reported back at the regular time, and that they are their breakinst

The jury, after a short consultation, concluded to have the two prisoners recommitted for a further examination, and, under the escort of Commissioner amination, and, then the Brennan, they took stage and drove up to the little "lodge," where the brutal murder was committed. After inspecting the building they went to the John Gray, another convict who was locked up on aturday by Warden Fox, was there brought before the rry. Gray was convicted of burglary in the third deree and has almost served his time out. He acted as spital steward and was frequently compelled to go in the middle of the night for the doctor. At a litthe past ten occess of the latest made the water down stairs and told the night watchman that one of the men was very sick in the hospital and that he must go for the doctor. He demes having gone near the gato-keeper and that he knew anything of the murder. The Coroner and jury, after consulting together for some time, decided that it would be best to postpone the inquest, with the hope that some new facts may be developed. Captain Williams and two of his detectives of the Fourth precinct police are engaged in working up the case. The jury adjourned to such a time as the Coroner may deem it proper to call them together. Gray was recommitted and the jury returned to the city.

Kennedy, of the Ladies' Union Relief Society; Miss Schuyler, Danan, of the School of Industry; Miss Schuyler, Livingston, of the Children's Aid Society; A. F. Dar-Kennedy, of the Ladies' Union Relief Society; Miss of the State Charities Aid Association; Mrs Dunning, of the Providence Bible Relief Scciety; John Taylor Johnston, F. A. Stont Arthur J. Peabody, Philip Sands and Professor Joy Robert Gordon presided and Henry E. Pellew acted as Secretary. After the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, held in April last, the Secretary read the report of the Executive Committee, recommending for the present the abolition of the system of registration that prevailed last year. The report also stated that during the summer available information had been obtained, whereby it was found that if two or more chari-during the summer available information had been obtained, whereby it was found that if two or more charitable societies unite, they could procure coal to deliver to deserving poor at $2 leas than asked for in the regular retail way.

HON. THRODORE ROOSEVELT offered suggestions to substitute a new system for the present mode of administering outdoor relief. He said, it will be generally admitted that the best way of helping people is by helping them to help themselves. But to carry out this plan it is desirable to deal with those who require assistance, as individuals and single families, and a certain minute knowledge of the circumstances of each case becomes necessary. Relief gives in money too frequently undermines the self-respect of the recipient, and, besides interfering with the laws which govern wages and labor, fosters a spirit of dependence as opposed to that of self-support. The knowledge required in such cases can scarcely be obtained by official visitors in crowded cities or in widely extended districts, and when administered in signorance of the circumstances must degenerate into more indiscriminate alms-giving, than which nothing tends more to degrade the worthy and to encourge imposture and vice.

Mr. Roosevelt then proceeded to sketch a plan, which would take the place of outdoor relief, of which the following are the principal features:—The city should be divided into small districts, each district having a corps of volunteer visitors, a central office or headquarters in charge of a paid male official, who should keep a record of the work done, assist the visitors and be always on hand to give necessary information. The visitors should report weekly to a district committee would be represented. These suggestions would be summarized as embracing the following points:—

First—That visiting must be searching, frequent and intelligent.

Third—That the visitors should not dispense relief their resonability.

velopment of their resources.

Third—That the visitors should not dispense relief on their own responsibility.

Fourth—That a centralized and co-operative system of relief, in which all societies and persons may take their part under direction, is essential for the complete development of the plan.

This plan has received the approval of the outdoor relief committee of the State Charities Aid Assocition, and it is expected will be indorsed by the majority of the private charitable societies.

Mr. Roosevelt said that

THE HOARD OF RETIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT of this city had set asside the sum of $80,000 to be distributed among the out-door poor. The Board of Aldermen are endeavoring to have the sum increased to $150,000. Two years ago, while he was chairman of the Bureau of Charities, an investigation was made into the system of distributing outdoor relief, and it was found that three-fourths of the money expended was actually wasted or spent among friends of politicians. The present Commissioners of Charities have expressed their willingness to unite with the Board of United Charities in distributing aims. They have agreed to submit all supointments of visitors to him (Mr. Roosevelt) at least one week before they receive their appointment, in order that their characters may be investigated and their fitness tested. The great difficulty of the day is to organize the machinery for distributing aims. There is no lack of volunteer help investigated and their timess tested. The great dis-culty of the day is to organize the machinery for distributing alms. There is no lack of volunteer help at command, but there is no well planaed system to utilize the help.

NEW JERSEY CONVICTS.

EFFECT OF THE HARD TIMES ON CONVICT LABOR-OCCUPATION OF THE ARISTOCRATIC CONVICTS UNDER SENTENCE. THENTON, Nov. 30, 1875.

There are 704 convicts in the State Prison in this city. Nearly all of them have been idle during the past three or tour months. A few days ago a contract was made with a Philadelphia shoe manufacturing company for the employment of 150 of these criminal wards of the State at fifty cents each per day, to hold good for one year. This is a very low price for convict labor, but in consequence of the depression of business and "the hardness of the times" the prison authorities thought it better to adhere to the old adage, that "haif a loaf is better than no bread."

The Jersey City bank robbers—Foley, Proctor and Department of the prison of the prison

The Jersey City bank robbers—Foley, Proctor and Denning—are in good health, and getting along satisfactorily. They remain contined in their cells, and are not doing any manual labor. Alexander D. Hamilton, Jersey City's defaulting treasurer; Frederick Klenen, Hoboken's savings bank embezzler, and Lewis E. French, the bogus insurance agent from Jersey City, all three aristocratic convicts, were put to work on Saturday last in the shoe factory. Newark's sensational real estate "conspirators," G. T. Raisbeck and C. H. Bertrand, sentenced to two years each, are not permanently employed. The former now and again assists in the drug store of the prison.

Petitions of huge dimensions and numerously signed were presented in behalf of the latter two before the Court of Pardons during the present assistion of that body, praying for clemency. No action has been taken on them yet. There are about 120 petitions of that character now before the Court, out of which number but eight bave been successful. It is rumored that petitions will also be presented in favor of Klenen and Hamilton.

The announcement of the failure of Messra. Schenck & Co., of No. 55 Beekman street, in yesterday's Herald, has proved to be incorrect. The firm are in a periectly sound condition and doing a good business,

His election was opposed by the representative of the Bank of British North America and some others, on the ground of his being a creditor, but he was elected by a large majority.

THE BROOKLYN RING CASES.

There was nothing new in the cases of the alleged delinquent contractors and officials in Brooklyn yesterday affecting the Hempstead Reservoir and Third avenue contract irregularities. Mr. Parsons, the representative of the Attorney General in the coming suits, has not yet caused the arrest of the defendants, nor is it positively known when he will do so. He has not announced whom he will appoint to assist him in the trials.

There was a rumor in circulation last evening, in circles alleged to be well informed, that the Grand Jury had indicted, or contemplated indicting, an official of the city of Brooklyn for malteasance, in having received from the gas company a royalty of sixty-five cents upon each and every lamp put up in the city. The accusation that such was the case that money was paid to an official by the gas company was first made by Mr. J. F. Henry, before the Taxpayers' Association, a couple of months ago, at an executive session of that body. It had been stated, Mr. Henry said, on that occasion, that the money thus collected was used for election purposes.

The meeting was held with closed doors, the representatives of the press being excluded from the Aldermanic council upon this occasion.
